Plaque marks erosion

D'head crafts show snuffed

BY RICHARD MEER

One of Diamondhead Academy's biggest annual fundraisers has been canceled, but left unclear is the reason.

Officials of the Diamondhead Arts and Crafts Show announced that the popular event, perennially held in early fall, was cancelled because of a lack of cooperation by the Diamondhead Property Owners' Board.

Traditionally, the show has been held at the Diamondhead Country Club. The country club burned in November of 1995, but the show was staged in front of the old club site.

A new country club is nearing completion, and one crafts show official said the contractor, Stone Construction of

"I do not expect (the country club) to be completed by the end of August, nor does the architect...The architects are estimating construction is one month behind schedule..."

Diamondhead Property Owners Association General Manager Jim LeDuc

Dallas, assured them that the club would be finished by the original completion date at the end of August. Additionally, show officials were told that holding the show at the country club "would not interfere with construction, nor cause extra cost."

Show officials insist that the POA board "refused" to allow the show to be held at the club.

POA General Manager Jim LeDuc said the club would not be finished as the contractor contends.

"I do not expect it to be completed by the end of August, nor does the architect (Chris Consultants of Irving, Tx.) who oversees the contractor," he said. "The architects are estimating construction is one month behind schedule, possibly more."

He said the delays are being caused by unusually wet weather, and are of no fault of the contractor. LeDuc said the

Beach erosion concerns citizens

BY BETSY GAGNET

A group of Waveland residents concerned with the conservation of the beach have been steadfastly tracking its erosion since 1994, and the results may be surprising to people.

Since 1994 when the Hancock County beach renourishment project was completed, the Waveland residents said they have documented a loss of 65 feet, five inches of beach at the end of Oak Boulevard.

Members of the Oak Boulevard pier annually document the location of the water line on the beach by marking it with a plaque placed on the pier. The beach is marked at high tide on the day of the annual pier cleanup which takes place around the beginning of the summer, according to member Sharon Crane.

Thomas Soniat, a member of the pier, said he thinks it is important to bring the erosion into the public eye.

"I think it should be recognized that 65 feet have been lost in three years," Soniat said. "To solve the problem, it has to be identified."

The county is aware of the erosion taking place along the approximately 4.4 miles which were part of the 1994 beach renourishment project at a cost of $2.3 million.

"We know we are losing a lot of sand to erosion," said John Scafide, Chairman of the Hancock County Sand Beach Advi-

Demolition finally began Wednesday on the burned out bed and breakfast on Nicholson Avenue in Waveland. The site has been an eyesore for over two years, but work was held up because of legal battles. Gerald Charles of Waveland is in charge of the demolition. (Echo staff photo by Richard Meek)

Kids Fishing Rodeo set for August 10

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

The 13th Gulf Coast Sportsman Club Kids Fishing Rodeo is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 10 from 6 a.m.-5 p.m.

The rodeo is open to boys and girls ages 13 and under, according to Shorty Karl, rodeo chairman and club vice-president.

The rodeo headquarters will be at Pavilion No. 1 at Buccaneer State Park, Beach Boulevard, Waveland.

Registration is free, and forms will be available at the rodeo headquarters until 2 p.m. rodeo day, or at Sam Perniciaro's Garage, Old Spanish Trail.

In the freshwater division, prizes will be awarded for the largest green trout (bass) and perch.

Prizes will be awarded in the saltwater division for the largest speckled trout, redfish, white trout, flounder, croaker, ground mullet and largest fish.

A king fisherman and a queen fisherette will be selected from ages 8-13.

"The rodeo's officials will not be responsible for undersized fish," Sam Perniciaro, club president warned.

"No undersized fish will be accepted, and parents are urged

Supers hosting state conference

BY ED LEPOMA

Chancery Clerk Tim Kellar and Hancock County's five supervisors are in Biloxi for the 68th annual convention of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors.

Hancock, Harrison and Jackson County supervisors are co-hosts for the annual event.

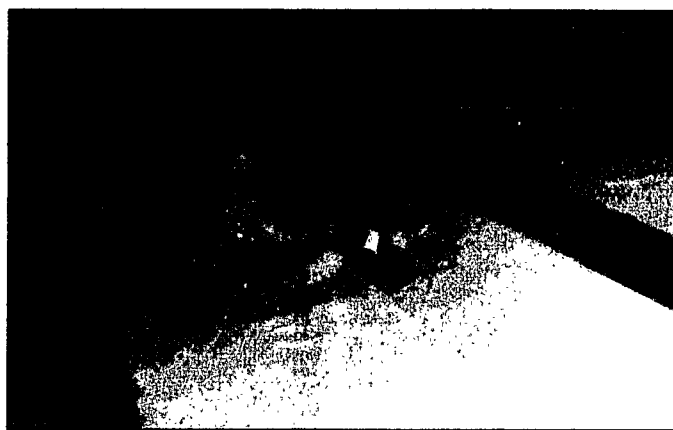

The meeting kicked off with early registration Tuesday and will climax Friday, Aug. 1 with the convention's annual banquet.

Unlike last year when most events took place at the Grand Casino in Biloxi, most convention events are scheduled to be held at the Gulf Coast Coliseum and Convention Center. Some committee meetings are planned at the nearby Broadwater East Hotel. Board President Philip Moran serves on the association's Nominating Committee.

The three coastal communities will host a "Mardi Gras Madness" reception this evening at the d'Iberville Civic Center.

As they did last year, Kellar said the Coast delegation will feature boiled and fried seafood at its reception.

The convention also features a golf tournament, a Deep Sea Fishing Tourney and outings for children and women accompanying the delegates.

Young volunteer

The youngest painting volunteer at Bay Middle School was Robin Norrell, daughter of PTO president Shelia Norrell. Robin was busy painting the seats in the school's gym. PEP (Personnel Excellence Partnership) volunteers from the Naval Oceanographic Office at the John C. Stennis Space Center have joined teachers, parents and friends of Bay Middle School on an interior painting project. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

ST. ANN-ST. JOHN NEWS

Thoughts for meditation:
 Be beautiful inside, in your hearts, with the lasting charm of a gentle and quiet spirit which is so precious to God.
 I Peter 3:40

Clear water flows from a pure spring.

The Lord detests the thoughts of the wicked, but those of the pure are pleasing to Him.

Proverbs

Build a little fence of trust around today, fill the space with loving deeds and therein stay. Look not through the sheltering bars upon tomorrow, God will help thee bear what comes of joy or sorrow.

—Butts
 But make everyone rejoice who puts His trust in you, because you are defending them.
 Psalm 5:11

He that can have patience can have what he will.

More fishing spots

Hancock High School senior Mark Garcia (center) has asked supervisors to look into providing more fishing spots for handicapped citizens who like to fish. There are currently only three areas in Cedar Point where the handicapped can fish, and piers need to be reworked to provide access. Garcia said he made the request for his lifelong friend, Charles Seals (left). With Seals at the Dunbar Pier is Mike Murzi, executive director of the local chapter of Paralyzed Veterans of America. ## Airport construction to begin

BY RICHARD MEERK

Private pilots using Stennis International Airport may be inconvenienced for a short time during August because of construction at the facility.

The payoff will be nearly $1 million of improvements that includes an automated weather reporting system, a precision approach system, runway lights and freshly paved runways and taxiways.

A new 12-, possibly 14-plane hangar will also soon become a reality.

Bill Stovall, deputy director of the Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission, said Williams Paving of Gulfport will begin overlaying the runway on Aug. 18. He said that work may force a portion of the southern tip of the runway to be closed for several days.

Stovall said a meeting with pilots to discuss the closure has been scheduled on Aug. 21 at 6:30 p.m. at Phillips Aviation at the airport.

As paving begins, work should also commence on a sophisticated runway lighting system and an automated weather reporting system.

The new Precision Approach Path Instrument System (PAPIS) is designed to help pilots on approach during low visibility. An automated weather station will allow pilots to obtain weather information at Stennis from FAA's national weather service. Currently, inbound pilots can obtain weather only from as close as Gulfport on the FAA service.

The improvements are being funded through state grants that have required varying match amounts and a fully funded FAA grant.

The T-hangars were first discussed in November. Plans call for a simple, metal building to be constructed on a cement slab.

Stovall is estimating a price-tag of approximately $200,000. The Commission was able to secure a three percent interest on a state loan to complete the project.

Original plans called for a 12-plane hangar to be constructed, but Stovall said that may increase to 14 depending on funding.

Commission members questioned the $18,750 in engineering fees being paid to Moran-Seymour of Gulfport for the project. Commission Attorney Robert Genin said a review of the contract revealed that the engineering firm wants 90 percent of its money after final designs are completed, and only five percent after construction.

Moran-Seymour has offered to provide a resident inspector, but only at an added charge that has yet to be determined.

"The contract is front-end loaded," Genin said. "We need to rearrange some of the payments."

"We are more interested in the construction part than the architectural side. If there are problems during construction, then (Moran-Seymour) doesn't have a lot of interest."

Commission members said they believed the contract called for Moran-Seymour to supervise construction in its entirety.

"That's an awful lot of money for what they're going to do," Commissioner Lou Hall said.

"My only problem is so much up front," Commissioner Harry Farve said. "Ninety percent up front is a lot up front."

However, commission members instructed Genin to keep the payment schedule according to Moran-Seymour's desire. However, a clause in the contract calling for arbitration in case of a dispute.

Genin said arbitration is as costly as litigation, so Commission Chairman Dave McDonald instructed the arbitration clause be stricken.

In another matter, Bailey Lumber Co. in Bay St. Louis was awarded a contract of $329,703 for masonry work at the Wellman manufacturing site.

'Gatsby' evening set

BY ED LEPOMA

"A Great Gatsby Evening" will be the theme of the South Mississippi AIDS Task Force's second annual fund raiser scheduled in August.

The event, which will include a live and silent art auction, will be staged beginning at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 23 at the Bay St. Louis Depot.

According to planners, art work will be donated by several prominent Southern artists. Among those donating are George Dureau, Bill Myers, David Harris, Vicki Lever-Niolet, Andre Loiacano.

Due to cutbacks in federal and state funding, the Task Force must depend more heavily on private donations, planners say, and funds raised at the event will help continue AIDS awareness education, counseling and individual support for clients and families.

Admission for the evening is $25 per person or $40 per couple. There will be live entertainment, heavy hors d'oeuvres, and a cash bar.

Hope Haven benefit

BY ED LEPOMA

Don't be suspicious if someone calls you about a benefit for Hope Haven, Hancock County's home for abused and neglected children.

"It's all perfectly legal," according to Executive Director Terry Latham.

Latham said Hope Haven has contracted with Blann Productions to mount a telephone and mail sales campaign for a Variety/Magic Show this coming October.

Latham said, "Blann Productions bears the cost of this effort and takes a small percentage of the profits before expenses."

The show will be staged at 7 p.m. Oct. 28 at the Saenger Theatre in Biloxi.

"This is a wonderful opportunity to provide quality family entertainment on the Gulf Coast and help raise money for Hope Haven," said Latham.

Naval survey ship to visit New Orleans

The USTS Texas Clipper II (Texas Maritime Academy) is scheduled to visit New Orleans (near the Aquarium of the Americas) Thursday, July 31.

The clipper is the former USNS Chauvenet and has a long history as an oceanographic survey ship for the Naval Oceanographic Office at Stennis Space Center.

The 388-foot vessel was launched in 1968 and named after Professor William Chauvenet, a prominent astronomer, mathematician and Naval Academy instructor.

The Chauvenet, a white oceanographic ship, surveyed the world's oceans for nearly 24 years, and was turned over to the Texas A&M's Maritime Academy, out of Galveston, Texas, in October 1992.

The Naval Oceanographic Office continues to replace the larger ships, like the Chauvenet, with smaller, specifically designed, multi-purpose survey vessels. The USNS Chauvenet's primary use was in deep water survey operations.

Today's ever-changing naval requirements concentrate more frequently on shallow water survey. These surveys require a smaller, lighter and more technically-advanced ship.

The USTS Texas Clipper II is a prime example of the Navy's continuing desire to support science education and the study of the world's oceans.

Like choo-choo trains and rocking chairs.

At NorthShore Regional Medical Center, we realize that going to the hospital can be a frightening experience for children. That's why our emergency room features a special Kid's Room. This room has colorful wallpaper, a TV and VCR for children's movies, rocking chairs...things that can make a parent and child feel more at ease. Because we understand that while no one wants to spend time in a hospital, we can certainly try to make their stay as comfortable as possible.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It has been some time since I have mentioned anything about the Hancock County Walking Track in my column.

The walking track is a very busy place. I noticed some 20 or so walkers out about 8:30 Monday morning.

This is good that the facility enjoys continued use by the general public.

I just wonder how many thousands of calories have been burned off by walkers since the facility was constructed.

Mentally I keep telling myself that I need to get back into the walking mode, but my body keeps telling me no when I try.

But, I will keep trying, and who knows, maybe I can get to be a regular once again at the track.

Vacations are welcomed by many, and it seems that the month of July is becoming the most popular month of the year for the get-away.

It seems that about every other person you talk to just got back from a vacation or is planning one.

It is always good to get away from the regular routine and relax for a few days.

It seems I am able to take off usually in the Spring of the year, and that is a good time to get away, too.

My neighbors, the Greg Richarsons, motored as far as the Grand Canyon for a two-week vacation which ended last weekend.

I asked Greg if they had any rain during their travels, and he told me there was a slight rain in the desert one time.

I told him he missed many rainfalls while he was away, even the threat of a hurricane.

Those who have not had their vacation yet, I wish them a happy and good vacation.

Activity seems to have picked up this week on the construction work along Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis. It is probably the most work completed within one week since the project began many months ago.

I sure hope the Highway 90 job does not turn out like the Highway 603 project in length of time needed to complete the task.

Weather, I am sure, has caused some delays on the Bay project. It seems we have had about twice as many showers than we normally do at this season of the year.

Looking forward to when the resurfacing of Highway 90 is completed, as that section of the road has really gotten to a bad shape.

Public warned

Executive Director, Terry Latham, says someone has been soliciting services and picking up cash in jars on the pretense they are working for Hope Haven.

Latham said the scam cropped up Tuesday when a downtown merchant reported she had given a jar of cash to a "woman in her 30s, with a dark complexion, who said she was collecting for Hope Haven."

Latham said the owner of Twin Pines Roller Rink also donated free passes, and Fun City USA Amusement Park in Harrison County did the same.

"Only myself, and my assistant, Valerie Edenfield, are authorized to collect monies or solicit area merchants," said Latham.

Latham said the incident has been reported to local law enforcement officials. He advises merchants who are approached to ask for identification.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Citizens' help needed in solving Hare Krishna fire

Dear Editor:

What a tragedy that intolerance and hate exist for anyone who may differ in their beliefs, recreation, lifestyle, color, physical appearance, or religion, from what some zealots consider normal.

The burning of the Hare Krishna float and property, possibly by hate mongering arsonists is something that the good people of Hancock County and Mississippi should not tolerate.

I certainly hope that anyone who is able to provide information about the arson will come forward and that it is right, so that the perpetrators may be tried and punished.

Hancock County has no room for such self-righteous, cowardly low lifes, who think their own narrow-minded beliefs are the only way to live, and who show their true lack of intelligence, as any bully does, through hate, harassment or destructive means.

I know that many of the local churches have helped other Christian congregations rebuild their burned churches, but I would be very interested to know how many of them are helping the Krishnas.

A fund has been set up in Picayune, and I urge all local churches, organizations and individuals, to come together with a united show of good will to help the Krishnas rebuild and help them to purchase badly needed machinery and hay which was destroyed by the fire.

The bale of hay can be bought for $20 or perhaps even donated.

Anyone wishing to contribute may send a tax-exempt donation to: Account #100-2147, First National Bank of Picayune, 121 E. Canal Street, Picayune, MS 39466.

Make checks payable to ISKON of Mississippi.

I sincerely hope that all the truly good people and churches of Hancock County will come together and show the love for "everyone" that we profess and are always talking about.

Naturally,
Donald C. Holt

Then and Now

By David Cassell

First of all, this is no big deal. This is just how I feel.

When I was seven, I heard about him on the news. It really shocked my shoes.

I feel sad for the victims. Now on earth they have no life, though someone still has the knife.

He was a star. This is why it has gone so far.

He took a gun, when he went to run. He got the chills! So he jumped in his friend's wheels, thinking should I kill or make a deal.

If that would have been my dad, it would have been too bad. The trial when I was eight, news people sure thought it was great.

In the past, her face black and blue. This he never had a clue. He never threw a fit and hit. He said, "She was my love, but that's not my glove."

Skin color was a fight. "Black or white," it's still not right.

When they said, "He's not guilty," Some thought it was funny. Some thought it was money.

Now time has past. There's still more news. He says, "Those aren't my shoes." The pictures better be fake for his sake.

He now has a new title. He's sure not my idol. He sure is glad, but now I'm mad.

It's a crime, that's took a lot of time.

The news was all fine. But now I'm nine.

I think it's for the best, to let the victims rest. How long this has been, I hope it's all over before I'm ten.

Now, when this is all done. Still a family left without a son. Two children holding on to each other, lost without a mother.

EDITOR'S NOTE: David Cassell of Cass, W.V., is the nine-year-old grandson of Mrs. Michael (Patricia) Cuevas of Waveland.

Navy volunteer

Senior Navy Chief Greg Thomas is one of several Naval Oceanographic Office volunteers from the John C. Stennis Space Center who has spent several days painting the walls of Bay Middle School. Other NAVO employees involved with the project included Wally Alston, Julie Cox, Steve Wilson and son Colin, Lt. Kyle Galusha, Chief Dan Banks, QM1 Larry Erwin, Eric Labat, QM1 Elbert Paul and BM3 David Richardson. The program is part of the Personnel Excellence Partnership (PEP) program in which government agencies become involved in community projects. Bay Middle School is one of several adopted schools of NAVO located at the Stennis Space Center. Wally Alston, PEP coordinator, said the agency's personnel will perform maintenance work on the painting project involving the middle school's gym, "which should be one of the best painted school gym's in the nation." Bay Middle School's building was constructed in 1927, Lily De Blieue, principal, who was also swinging a paint brush, said. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

ASK THE V.A.

By Donald Mauffray
Veterans Service Officer

Gulf War claims

In 1991, many returning Gulf War veterans reported chronic symptoms of fatigue, skin rash, memory loss, joint and muscle pain, and other symptoms that have come to be known as Gulf War Illness (GWI). GWI is a complex of ill-defined and often poorly characterized symptoms what have evaded a case definition by the medical community, and therefore go undiagnosed by medical doctors.

In November, 1994, Congress passed and the President signed Public Law 103-446, the "Veterans' Benefits Improvement Act of 1994." This legislation was a bold, unprecedented approach to the payment of compensation for a service-connected disability.

It allowed VA to pay compensation to Gulf War veterans who suffered from undiagnosed illnesses possibly related to their service in the Southwest Asia theater of operations.

The legislation gave Gulf War veterans the benefit of the doubt concerning their current disabilities, keeping with the nation's long tradition of caring for its disabled war veterans.

In February, 1995, VA published the regulation titled "Compensation for Certain Disabilities Due to Undiagnosed Illnesses." The regulation requires some connection between symptoms and service in the Persian Gulf. To qualify for disability compensation under this regulation, a veteran must prove or provide evidence of the following:

a. Service in the Southwest Asia theater of operations during the Gulf War (Aug. 2, 1990 to an as yet undetermined

b. Suffers from a chronic, undiagnosed illness;

c. The signs and symptoms of illness which revealed themselves not later than two years after the date on which the veteran last served in the theater of operations, and the symptoms were severe enough to warrant at least a 10 percent VA disability evaluation within those two years.

In March of this year, the Secretary of VA announced that the aforementioned two-year presumptive period would be extended to 10 years. A Gulf War veteran must now exhibit undiagnosed signs and symptoms of illness before January 1, 2002.

The new regulations concerning the extension of the presumptive period have not been published to date.

According to VA, the signs and symptoms that may be manifestations of undiagnosed illnesses include, but are not limited to:

- Fatigue
- Signs and symptoms involving skin (including hair loss)
- Headaches
- Joint and/or muscle pain
- Neurologic signs and symptoms
- Signs and symptoms involving the upper or lower respiratory system
- Sleep disturbances
- Gastrointestinal signs or symptoms (including diarrhea and constipation)
- Cardiovascular signs or symptoms
- Abnormal weight loss
- Menstrual disorders

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

Important meeting

The Diamondhead Community Association has planned an important meeting which will include dinner on Tuesday, Aug. 5 at 6:30 p.m. at the Diamondhead Yacht Club.

A group of six guest speakers, who are various department heads under the POA, will discuss what their jobs are all about. They will enlighten folks to the inner workings of Diamondhead.

Jim LeDuc, the new manager, is one of the speakers. Family membership is $10 per year, and all are welcome and encouraged to join.

Reservations for dinner is $12.50 per person, and checks (which may include membership dues) may be mailed to DCA, P. O. Box 6011, Diamondhead, MS 39525.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED
Hancock County and the Retired and Senior Volunteer

Program (RSVP) and Professional Home Health are sponsoring a Volunteer Fair to be held at the newly renovated L&N Railway Depot in Bay St. Louis Friday Aug. 8, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. There will be refreshments and door prizes.

Volunteers of all ages are needed by local community service organizations. Hours are flexible. Help is really needed to make this first-time effort a big success.

Call RSVP at 467-9204 for information.

ATTENTION, SENIORS

Join your friends for a morning full of fun, activity and lunch with shopping on the way back home.

The bus leaves the Diamondhead Plaza parking lot at 8:30 a.m. every Friday and returns about 1 p.m.

For transportation and information, call Margaret at 255-1317.

WHO ARE THEY?

In this column a few weeks ago, I asked where the baby ducks had gone that were in the pond by the entrance gates. They disappeared.

But appearing in their place are some new feathered friends to join our own. Does anyone have any information as to what kind they are?

PLEASE COME

Project Christmas Lights will meet Friday, Aug. 29, 7 p.m. at the community center. Please come and share your ideas. Call 255-1317 for information.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

The best time for worry, depression, melancholy, brooding, is to go deliberately forth and try to lift with one's sympathy the gloom of somebody else.

Care for one another and have a great week.

Red Cross computer project makes blood banking safer

Acting on its pledge to improve the safety and potency of the nation's blood supply, the American Red Cross Blood Services Gulf Coast Region implemented a state-of-the-art computer system and new manufacturing procedures which will ensure a more efficient system of record keeping and blood distribution to area hospitals.

The goal of the Manufacturing and Computer Standardization (MACS) project is to standardize all blood collection and distribution procedures throughout the nation's 38 American Red Cross regions.

The new system will enhance the prescreening and records process for donors, and will also standardize procedures for determining donor suitability, collections, processing of blood products and storage and distribution of blood to hospital patients.

"We are pleased to the 11th

Red Cross region in the country to 'go live' on MACS," said Bob Cardan chief executive officer of the Gulf Coast region. "We know these changes will further ensure that the Red Cross produces the safest blood products by using the most efficient manufacturing methods. With these changes, we will continue our role as a blood banking pioneer, leading the industry into the 21st century."

The Gulf Coast region began preparing for the MACS system in March with extensive training from some 180 Red Cross employees. The region employs approximately 200 people at its blood centers in Mobile, Montgomery, Opelika, Dothan, Biloxi/Gulfport, Fort Walton Beach and Panama City. More than 90,000 blood donations take place in the Gulf Coast region each year.

MACS is a key component in the Red Cross' pledge to improve the purity and potency of America's blood supply, announced in 1991 by American Red Cross President Elizabeth Dole. The Connecticut region was the first to convert to MACS in August 1988. All regions will be converted by December 1998.

The Red Cross has been the primary supplier of blood products since World War II. Today, it collects and distributes one-half of the nation's blood supply. The Gulf Coast Region supplies blood to 72 hospitals throughout central and south Alabama and parts of Florida, Georgia and Mississippi.

Women's health issues

Dr. Keith Goodfellow, OB/GYN, addresses a group of ladies in the sanctuary of the Main Street United Methodist Church, Bay St. Louis, on women's health issues as part of The Power of Positive Living Seminar program last Friday. The event was sponsored by the Hancock County Health Council and Main Street United Methodist Church. A large number of health related displays, special workshops, and free screenings were part of the seminar. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

THE SEA COAST ECHO - THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1997

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Charles Hawkins is hardly clairvoyant, but the 32-year-old Waveland bodybuilder has a vision. In his vision, the date is Aug. 15, the sight is New York City where dreams often die hard, and Hawkins is walking across the stage to accept the hardware for winning the National Physique Committee Team Universe amateur contest.

"I can see it now," said Hawkins, the first Mississippian to ever compete in the prestigious bodybuilding contest. "I see myself taking that first place trophy."

It is a scene that seemed improbable to Hawkins, the adolescent. As a young teen, Hawkins, a Waveland native, was one of the skinniest kids in his Middletown neighborhood. He was routinely fodder for the older and bigger kids on his way home from Waveland Elementary.

Even the girls poked fun at the scrawny Hawkins.

But the biggest insult, and turning point, may have come when Hawkins tried out for the junior high football team. He was hit so hard during practice that tears welled in his eyes. Being a lad short in status but long in common sense, Hawkins opted to try another sport.

At the age of 15, Hawkins began lifting weights, a decision that has catapulted him into bodybuilding's elite. He hurled himself into his new hobby, and by the age of 17, Hawkins, a strapping 185-pound junior at Bay High with a Holyfield-type physique, Hawkins returned to the football field.

"It was heaven," he said. "I was no longer a target of those guys making fun of me before. I was putting pain on them."

Hawkins played noseguard his junior season, and after a summer of pulling tubes on sleds to improve his quickness, played running back and noseguard his senior season.

His adult years have taken him to the Powerhouse of Deliverance Church, where he preaches and serves as a youth minister. He also works at Williams Wrecking Co. at Stennis Space Center and volunteers at the Job Corps Center in Gulfport.

But he has never strayed far from the weightroom, and his chiseled body serves as testimony. In preparing for the Team Universe competition, Hawkins is working out twice a day for three hours a day to hone his body. At last check, Hawkins' body fat was 3.5 percent on his 5-8, 197-pound frame.

He admitted he has cut back on amount of weight he is lifting to minimize the risk of injury leading up to the competition, but has increased reps for better tone and definition.

"I am training more intensely but I'm not even horseplaying with the kids," he said. "I could twist an ankle and blow everything."

A four-time defending state champion, Hawkins said he has spent the past year training for the competition. Besides a rigorous workout regime, he has maintained a steady diet of oatmeal, egg whites, baked fish and chicken, beans, cabbage and a lot of other "green stuff."

"I've had no junk food," he said. He added he has not splurged on a Whopper since November of last year.

In an arena where steroids are encouraged and gobbled like water on a hot day, Hawkins is most proud that he has been able to achieve his goals without performance-enhancing drugs.

"I was told I would never do it without steroids," he said. "Guys that told me that, I am now kicking their butts. They are now messed up on drugs."

"I can't look up to these guys who take drugs," he added. "This is a healthy sport. I ask guys who encourage the use of steroids how many athletes have to die before we start promoting drug-free weightlifting. They just look at me."

Although he is proud of his accomplishments, Hawkins admits bodybuilding is only the pulpit for his preaching. And he counts anyone he comes in contact with, especially those training, as his congregation.

For all of his size, underneath those muscles of intimidation is a gentle man, a religious person with a heart welcome to anyone who wishes to enter.

"Anytime you see a man accomplish something, you have to look at what drives him,"

Champion in all areas

Charles Hawkins

Sea Wolves announce return of Troy Mann

The Mississippi Sea Wolves professional hockey team announced the re-signing of left wing Troy Mann. Mann was the first player that Mississippi signed during their inaugural season just one year ago.

Mann was also the first Sea Wolves player to register a goal for the expansion club. Mann rejoins a team where he registered, second highest on the team in points scored with 68.

In 63 games played for the Mississippi Sea Wolves, Mann scored 33 goals and 33 assists in helping the team reach the first round of the Kelly Cup Playoffs. Mann is also credited with 38 penalty minutes on the year.

"Troy is the type of player that, if he stays healthy, can be a 40-goal-a-year player," said head coach Bruce Boudreau. Boudreau added, "Toward the end of the season on accumulation of nagging injuries slowed Troy down a bit. He brings intensity to the scoring column and is part of the scoring equation for next year's team. He is also a non-vet which is very appealing to composition of the team."

Boudreau was referring to the East Coast Hockey League mandate stating no team can have more than four veterans on a team. A veteran is any player who has played in more than 200 professional hockey games.

Finally, Boudreau was quoted as saying, "Mann was also a crowd favorite here on the Gulf Coast, and it is always a boost to the team to have a player who can contribute on the ice and have time for the fans off the ice."

When Mann was reached for comment he said, "I'm really excited for the new season to begin. It's been a long summer, and I'm really looking forward to lacing up the skates again. Knowing that I am returning to a team that promises to be a contender has also gotten me excited."

The Mississippi Sea Wolves begin their second year of professional hockey when they host the Pensacola Ice Pilots Oct. 16 in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

Bay Football League registrations set

The Bay St. Louis Football League will hold registrations on Sat., Aug. 2, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Mon., Aug. 4, 5 to 7 p.m.; Wed., Aug. 6, 5 to 7 p.m.; Fri., Aug. 8, 5 to 7 p.m.; and Sat., Aug. 9, 9 to 1 p.m.

Registrations will be held at the Bay St. Louis Complex, next to the J. D. McCullouch Stadium.

The Bay Football League is divided into three age groups.

6-7-8, 9-10 and 11-12-year-olds. Registration will also be held for girls ages 6-12, for cheerleaders.

Those registering must have a birth certificate and photo and be accompanied by a parent or guardian, Ree Elliott, spokesman said.

There will be a small registration fee, which will be discussed at the league's meeting Wednesday night.

Wildlife Extravaganza focuses on youth, seminar

Kids and veteran showgoers won't run out of things to do at the 11th annual Mississippi Wildlife Extravaganza coming to the Trade Mart in Jackson Aug. 1-3.

Sponsored by the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, the three-day show will feature hundreds of exhibitors and a host of new wildlife programs for all ages.

"We have gone all out for kids this year," said Lonnie Bailey, MWF president. "There will be wildlife shows, fishing demonstrations, competitions, fun shoots, and even duck calling all day long. Kids will be in for any outdoor activity is going to love this show," he said.

New programs for children include three events sponsored by the Mississippi Museum of Natural Science on wetland animals, frogs, fishes, alligators and largemouth bass.

World champion duck caller Buck Gardner has planned a special calling program for kids on Saturday, and the volunteers of Wildlife Rescue and Rehab, Inc. will use live birds and mammals to teach children how to rehabilitate and release injured and orphaned wildlife.

Jeff Terry and the West Mississippi Hunting Retrievers will offer how-to instructions for kids on training hunting retriever puppies, and herpetologist Terry Vandeventer will appear each day with his standing-room-only "Snakes of Mississippi" program.

Fishing pro Jeff Hanna will return for several fishing demonstrations at the Larwen Hawg Trough.

Children may also try their luck at the state Hunter Safety Daisy BB range, or learn to use long and recurve bows at the Traditional Archery Fun Shoot. MWF's Big Buck Contest and Archer's Edge 3-D competition also have youth categories.

The Extravaganza, the largest wildlife consumer show in the state, is a fund raiser for the Federation's conservation work.

"This is a big educational outreach program. Some 25,000 people will be in attendance here to shop and learn. It's a real family event," said Elizabeth Barber, MWF executive director.

There will be plenty of tips for the serious sportsman and woman too, including three new seminars: "Wild Game Food Plots," by John Carpenter of Pennington Seed, "Field Prepping your Game for the Taxidermist" by Robb Furlow, Furlow Wildlife Artistry, and "How to Limit Liability at the Hunting Club" by attorney Mike Massey.

Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks biologist Jim Lipe will give the latest report on the status of Mississippi's deer populations on Sunday afternoon.

The seminar schedule includes repeat performances by favorites Gary Sefton, world champion deer and turkey caller, retriever trainer John Dabbes of Blue Ribbon Kennels, receive a crown and sash from Circle D. Rodeo and Special Events and Michael's Country Club. She will ride in grand entry each night as well as sign autographs after each performance. She will also make special appearances throughout the weekend of the rodeo.

The pageant is open to ladies 18 and above who have horsemanship and/or rodeo skills. Contestants will be judged on their horsemanship knowledge and skills, interview, poise and beauty.

Each candidate must complete a registration form prior to competing. Forms can be obtained at Michael's Country Club or Rodeo Boot Outlet in Gulfport.

For information on pageant, sponsorships, rodeo program advertising or booths, call Melissa Burns at (800) 887-4971.

SSC coaches clinic

St. Stanislaus football coach Dave Kenson will be hosting the first Rock-A-Chaw Coaches Clinic Saturday, Aug. 9, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. at St. Stanislaus.

There is a $5 registration fee, which includes classroom sessions, lunch and an afternoon practice session.

Kenson said the Stanislaus coaching staff is holding the clinic for youth football coaches in the area as a means of coming together and sharing ideas from safety to technique.

Those interested or who have suggestions regarding the event, call the athletic secretary, Sharyn Kenson at St. Stanislaus at 467-9057.

Red Man Miss. Division Anglers compete

Chad Parks of Bartlett, Tenn., took first place, $2,311, plus 60 Chesapeake Points in the Red Man Mississippi Division qualifier held recently at the Columbia Pool.

Parks landed a five bass limit weighing 33 pounds, 2 ounces. He topped a field of 128 anglers competing for cash prizes totaling $7,432.

Parks fished ledges at the north end using a 12-inch black and red flake worm. Second place and $1,105 went to Jim Cook of West Point, Miss., for five bass weighing 11 pounds, 14 ounces. Cook also fished the north end. He used a 6-inch red shad worm and combination. Third place, paid $649, to Lynn Miller of Memphis, Tenn., for a limit of five bass, weighing 11 pounds, 12 ounces. Miller fished mid-lake in the brush and weeds near deep water using a three-eighths ounce jerk.

Fourth place was won by Rocky Smith of Hernando, Miss., for his five-bass catch weighing 11 pounds, 5 ounces. Smith fished grass mid-lake using a 17-pound test line with a red shad and worms.

Fifth place went to David R. Myers of Florence, Miss., for five bass weighing 11 pounds, 6 ounces. Myers fished slumps mid-lake using a crankbait and a one-eighth ounce spinnerbait. Fifth place paid $394.

Rounding out the top positions were: 6. Roger Stegan of Tupelo, Miss., five bass, 11 pounds, 8 ounces, $351; 7. Bruce Roberts, Meridian, Miss., five bass, 10 pounds, 7 ounces, $306; 8. Danny Walden, Columbus, Miss., five bass, 9 pounds, 14 ounces, $263; 9. Kristopher Boulding, Memphis, Tenn., five bass, 9 pounds, 11 ounces, $219; and 10. Ed Williams, Jackson, Miss., five bass, 9 pounds, 2 ounces, $181.

Lee Smith of Florence, Miss., took the Abu Gracia Big Bass Award of $1,000 for a 5-pound, 1 ounce catch.

The next stop for Mississippi Division anglers will be Sept. 14 on the Greenville Pool at Washington State's Lewis and Clark National Forest.

At the conclusion of the six Red Man Mississippi Division qualifiers, the top 30 anglers will move on to a regional championship competition. There they will compete against the top 30 fishermen from three other divisions for a Dream Rig consisting of a Chevy truck and a full-sized Ranger bass boat powered by an outboard motor. Only two divisions compete in the Western Regional for a fully rigged Ranger bass boat and a spot in the Red Man All-American in LaCrosse, Wis., May 25-30, 1998, where the winner will receive $100,000.

The rookie advancing farthest along the Red Man Trail will win the Old Milwaukee NA Rookie-of-the-Year Award. All Red Man tournaments are catch and release events.

Bill Lewis Lures has implemented a bonus program whereby Bill Lewis Lures will pay a bonus to Operation Bass to be used toward the purchase of release equipment weigh-in tanks, etc., if Operation Bass maintains a specified live release percentage for the year. Operation Bass historically maintains a 98 percent live release rate throughout the tournament season.

Bay Jr. High football

Bay Junior High football season will be in full swing Aug. 4 at the Field House from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Practices will begin Tuesday, Aug. 5, 3:30-5:30 p.m. Each player who did not get a physical during the spring will have to have a physical — parent consent — insurance form completed.

In order to practice, pick up required forms at the Field House. For information, contact Coach Shaw at 468-4912.

Varsity football practice will begin Monday, Aug. 4, 7 a.m.-10 a.m. and 3-5 p.m.

Rain cancels Sun Coast

Rain caused the cancellation of Saturday night's SUN COAST racing program at Sun Coast Speedway in Pass Christian.

The next scheduled program will be Aug. 2.

Live from Morocco

It's Project Marco Polo

Dr. Sharon Walker of Biloxi is an expert on marine biodiversity; she conducts workshops for Mississippi teachers on this topic all the time. Yet the presentation she's giving Thursday will be just a little different.

Walker will be teaching from the laboratories of the Navy's oceanographic survey ship USNS Pathfinder while it transits the Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Tangier, Morocco. Her students will include the 23 American teenagers and teachers embarked with Project Marco Polo, a national education program sponsored by the U.S. Navy and the National Geographic Society.

About 50 teachers in Mississippi will also "attend" the workshop via the hottest way of doing business in the 90's — video teleconferencing (VTC).

The hour-long VTC, relayed from the ship via INMARSAT (International Maritime Satellite) will be shown at Stennis Space Center's Fibernet 2000 Classroom.

"Since 1990 Project Marco Polo has brought hands-on oceanography to a select group of students and educators," said Dr. Don Durham, technical/deputy director of the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command at SSC.

"This is the first year we've added a VTC workshop. We are exploring all types of new technology, including the Internet, in order to bring this interactive distance learning experience into more classrooms."

In addition to learning about biodiversity, workshop attendees will get a peek of every marine science teacher's dream — two and a half weeks of hands-on oceanography in the Mediterranean Sea.

Long Beach Middle School Teacher Diane Baughman and her student Thomas "Joey" Hamilton, are living the dream. They are traveling with the 1997 Project Marco Polo expedition.

Hamilton, who enters his freshman year at Long Beach High School in August, was chosen during the Mississippi Science and Engineering Fair finals in April. His exhibit involved environmental cues related to the phenomenon of red tide in the Gulf of Mexico. Mrs. Baughman was his project advisor.

The Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command annually sponsors the Project Marco Polo award at the science fair to promote oceanography education at the middle school level. The other expedition members, who hail from Connecticut, Oklahoma and Texas, were selected by the National Geographic Society.

Hunters education courses

There will be hunter education courses Aug. 13, 14, 15, 16 and Sept. 10, 11, 12 and 13 from 6-9 p.m. at the Mississippi Power Company, 300 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

For information, contact Tom Williams, 467-4992; Bill Kimbrell, 468-5827, or Bobby Dardar, 467-7615.

Pigeon

auction Sat.

The Magnolia States Racing Pigeon Association will hold its second annual seminar and auction Saturday at the Hancock County Civic Center. Racing pigeon enthusiasts from across the Southeast are expected to attend the event.

This year's guest speaker will be Rick Mardis, an internationally recognized breeder of pedigree racing homing pigeons.

Mardis is also treasurer of the American Racing Pigeon Union and owner of the Continental Breeding Station in Oklahoma City.

The doors will open at 10 a.m., admission is free, and the public is invited. Food and refreshments will be available, and the seminar will begin at 1 p.m.

For information about the seminar or the sport of pigeon racing, call Bill Cross at 467-6767.

Hummingbird, butterfly gardens

Learn how to attract flying flowers. On Saturday, Aug. 2 at 2 p.m. at the Crosby Arboretum Olga Clifton, the "Abita Springs Hummingbird Lady," will present an illustrated program on the hummingbirds and butterflies of our area.

Clifton will discuss favorite food plants, how to attract and feed butterflies and hummingbirds and how to turn your back yard into a haven for these delightful creatures.

Reservations are required at $8 arboretum members, $10 non-members.

To reach the Crosby Arboretum, take I-59 to Exit 4 in Picayune and follow the signs. For information or to make reservations, call 799-2311, ext. 21.

Summer in the City celebrates Mardi Gras Indians' craft

The New Orleans Museum of Art's annual Summer in the City program this year brings the world of the Mardi Gras Indians to NORD campers across the city. The program's inspiration is "He's the Prettiest." A Tribute to Big Chief Allison "Tottie" Montana's Fifty Years of Mardi Gras Indian Suing, at NOMA through Aug. 31.

This lively exhibition features six of the intricate hand-made bead and feather costumes made by Montana, Big Chief of the legendary Yellow Pocahontas tribe, as well as color photographic blowups showing Montana sewing and parading in the streets of New Orleans.

Summer in the City, a NOMA community outreach educational program, takes this program to children enrolled in 22 of the summer camps operated by the New Orleans Recreation Department. Hundreds of children will participate in the project at the camps and, on a visit to NOMA, will tour the exhibition.

Summer in the City is made possible by a grant from the Shell Oil Co. Foundation, which has sponsored the program since 1993.

"Once again, Shell is pleased to be part of this important arts program," said Billy Vehne-kamp, Shell's external affairs manager in New Orleans.

"Summer in the City serves a vital purpose by bringing art projects to the children and giving Museum tours to NORD campers. New Orleans area youngsters get the museum experience in an educational, participatory and friendly way."

Each year, NOMA art counselors choose a Summer in the City theme anchored by an exhibition on view at the museum. NOMA staff and volunteers use Van Go, the museum-on-wheels, to take the art projects to the camps, which began July 14, campers visit the museum to see the exhibition in person. On Monday, July 28, the campers will return to NOMA to participate in an outdoor art activity.

The art project specially designed for campers this year is to fashion a Mardi Gras Indian style medallion from beads and feathers of the campers' own choosing. The beads are string-on safety pins and hung on string.

The NOMA tours will be conducted with the help of a team of teen-age summer volunteers.

Ladies' Night

The Fire Dog Saloon, Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis has new extended Ladies' Night Wednesday through Saturday. Entertainment is provided by Hozey and Brown, 10 p.m. till, Wednesday-Thursday. Music and dancing will be at the new Dance Club, 10 p.m. till, Friday-Saturday.

Pool Tournament

There will be an open pool tournament Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Knock Knock on Hwy. 90 in Waveland.

Old Mexico

For a taste of old Mexico, listen to the great sounds of the Mariachi Band at Los Tres Amigos every Friday, 6-9 p.m.

Grand Casino

Women's boxing set Saturday

Grand Casino Biloxi in association with GELB Promotions and Event Entertainment will present an evening of live boxing Saturday, Aug. 2, billed as "Leather & Lace." In all, four title fights and four undercard bouts will be waged. Doors to the theatre will open at 7 p.m. and the first match will begin at 8 p.m.

The 10-round main event will feature Kathy Collins (4-0-3, 1 KO) versus Christina Berry (2-1, 1 KO). "Lady Willpower," Kathy Collins initially began boxing as a vehicle to lose weight, trimming over 100 pounds from her frame. Collins is a unique blend of power and grace, and credits Evander Holyfield with being a true boxer and personal hero.

Christina "The Tiger" Berry has been training hard for three years and is managed by her mother. Berry will be making her IFBA debut fighting for the welterweight championship.

Additionally, Peoria, Ariz. native Yvonne Trevino (5-1-1, 2 KO's) will face Suzanne Riccio-Majors (3-3-1, 1 KO) of Pittsfield, Mass. Trevino has fought on ABC Wide World of Sports and was featured as a headliner on the national pay-per-view telecast of "Lips of Rouge, Fists of Fury" May 17. Riccio-Majors will make her IFBA debut when she fights for the flyweight championship.

In the Featherweight Division Bonnie "The Cobra" Canino (6-1, 4 KO's). At a petite 5'6 1/2 lbs. Canino is a true warrior whose intensity in the ring is a crowd pleaser.

An executive with the U.S. #1 Fitness based in Dania, Fla., Canino holds three black belts in the Chinese styles of martial arts and is a world champion kickboxer.

A native of Marine City, Mich., Szymanski also began her athletic career in karate and kickboxing. She credits female boxer Kathy Long as her boxing inspiration and commutes over 100 miles daily to train.

Also features will be Tracy "The Lady" Byrd (5-0, 4 KO's) versus Nora Daigle (3-0, 3 KO's) in the Lightweight Division. The popular Byrd from Flint, Mich. balances a career as a City of Flint police officer with her rapid rise as one of the bright stars of the IFBA.

Trained by her father, former pro boxer Joe W. Byrd, "The Lady" grew up in a boxing family where she was heavily influenced by the success of brothers, Joe Jr., Tim and Ron.

Daigle is a French Acadian, from Ottawa, who put her fiery spirit to good use in the ring. As a woman in a non-traditional sport, she strives to improve the profile of women in sports in both her native Canada and on the international front.

In Saturday night's undercard Bridgett "Baby Doll" Riley (2-1, 2 KO's) will go head-tohead with Shirley Prescott (2-0, 2 KO's).

Also featured will be Annissa Zamarron (7-4, 3 KO's) of Austin, Texas versus Brenda Rousse (7-1-1) of Bartlesville, Okla. and Fredia "The Cheeta" Gibbs (1-0) versus Gail Grandchamp (3-3).

Additionally, making her pro debut is Christina Dupree who will face newcomer Paula Faye (1-0, 1 KO).

Casino Magic

Palmer Golf Academy offers women clinics

The Arnold Palmer Golf Academy at Casino Magic is offering four new clinics in addition to their regular lesson program. The clinics start the first week of August and are specifically tailored to women, juniors, casino employees and beginners.

The Women's Clinic is designed for women who want to learn to play golf for business or pleasure, and those who want to improve their game. Points to be covered include basic rules and etiquette, mastering the fundamentals of the full swing and short game, effective practice methods and equipment.

Cost is $20 per session.

The Gulf Coast Casino Employees Clinic is for casino employees who work at any casino on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Cost is $15 per session.

Weekly Junior Clinics are for beginners and for those juniors who may have already had some instruction. The junior clinics are divided into three levels: beginner, intermediate and advanced. Cost is $10-$15 per session.

Treasure Bay

Treasure Bay Casino out of bankruptcy

In the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Mississippi, Judge Jerry A. Brown confirmed the amended joint plan of reorganization filed by Treasure Bay Corporation, Treasure Bay Gaming & Resort Inc. and First Trust National Association.

"We were committed to making it work from the beginning," said Bernie Burkholder, president and CEO of Treasure Bay.

"We thank our employees who are committed to providing outstanding customer service, our vendors who stood by us, and our loyal customers who continued to visit our casino."

Treasure Bay's management team, led by Burkholder, fought to remain in control of operations and save the business from liquidation after Santa Fe Gaming was removed in December 1994.

"At this time, we are confident that business has returned to a consistently profitable state and that our company's future is assured," Burkholder added.

Treasure Bay Casino will immediately begin implementation of its long-term business plan, which will ensure the company continues to improve its competitive position on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

"With our excellent location, highly-themed property, and new debt structure, I am confident of Treasure Bay's future in the Biloxi gaming market," said Burkholder.

The question of whether a spouse can contribute to an IRA is a common one. The answer is yes, but there are some restrictions.

First, technically, the maximum per person contribution to the greater of earned income or $2,000. Therefore, if you work and your spouse does not, you must have at least $4,000 in earned income for you and your spouse to both make the new maximum annual IRA contribution of $2,000 each.

This restriction generally won't be a problem. Some others may be. If you, or your spouse, are covered by a company-sponsored pension plan, your level of income will determine how much can be deducted. If income exceeds a certain level, no contribution may be deducted.

Other changes affecting IRA's beginning in 1997 include: unemployed taxpayers may make penalty-free withdrawals from the IRA's to pay for health insurance, and those with high medical expenses (expenses that exceed 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income) may offset these costs by also making penalty-free withdrawals. In both instances, the amount withdrawn is still subject to income taxes. Remember, the old rules remain for contributions covering the 1996 tax-year.

Ad Fed donates to Hope Haven

Mississippi Gulf Coast Advertising Federation donated the proceeds of $500 from a raffle sale to Hope Haven Children's Home in Hancock County. Ad Fed chose Hope Haven as their 1996-97 public service campaign. Hope Haven exists to protect abused and neglected children in South Mississippi. Members donated baskets of food at Thanksgiving and three large boxes of toys at Christmas. The food and toys brought smiles to kids who would have otherwise had a very bleak holiday.

In addition, members developed letterhead, envelopes, print advertisements and a public service television spot for Hope Haven's use. The goal of the club is to continue to help create an awareness and educate the public about child abuse.

Membership in Ad Fed ranges from producers of advertising, local businesses who buy advertising, public relations and marketing professionals.

Dannemuller joins Linda Toche & Co.

Linda Toche & Company welcomes Carolyn Dannemuller as a sales associate. Dannemuller has been a licensed real estate agent since 1985 and has been a million dollar producer for many years. Clients and friends can reach her at 392-3373.

Linda Toche & Company is a tenant at the Gulf Coast Business Technology Center, Harrison County's small business incubator. The BTC provides shared office and warehouse space, services and support to its tenant companies.

The economic development project is owned by the Harrison County Development Commission with support from the Harrison County Board of Supervisors.

The Greater Biloxi Economic Development Foundation serves as managers of the 33,000 sq. ft. facility located at 1636 Poppe Ferry Road in Biloxi.

Purpose of the small business incubator project is to create new businesses and new jobs on the Gulf Coast. Adele Lyons serves as executive director.

Ad Fed meets the first Thursday of each month at the Coliseum Holiday Inn. Each meeting features a speaker on topics of interest to the general membership.

For membership information, call membership chairman Christian Reese, Casino Magic public relations manager, at 466-3047.

ARTIN' ABOUT*Pearson paintings selected

Waveland artist Joseph Anthony Pearson had two out of three paintings he submitted accepted to the 18th Southwest Black Arts Competition.

The annual national competition is sponsored by the African American Museum in Dallas, Texas.

Pearson's work is described as social realism, that is, his work is done in a representational style with social overtones.

His work is often spoken of with reference to a reminiscence of Edward Hopper.

However, Pearson acknowledges familiarity and study of Hopper's work, but contends his major influence has been his former teacher and long-time friend and mentor, Hughie Lee-Smith.

Pearson's work can be seen at Gulf Coast Community College Jackson County in September. Pearson can be reached at 688-4816, fax (601) 688-7080.

A Place of Art VI
A Place of Art VI will be held Oct. 3-5 in Bay St. Louis.

ory Committee. "We are trying to figure out some way to keep the beach at least 10-15 years or more."

Bill Mitchell, president of Brown and Mitchell, wrote to the committee in April outlining "recommendations to maintain, preserve and extend the life of the beach."

Mitchell noted that "the beach serves as a sacrificial or passive structure to cost-effectively protect the seawall."

In April Scaife said he would recommend to the supervisors that a consultant be hired.

Plans call for the consultant to do an erosion study and to advise the county on how to minimize erosion.

A "scope of work" for the consultant is still being worked on so that the committee can then request proposals from interested consultants.

Scaife said the scope of work tentatively includes such things as establishing the amount, rate and cause of erosion, evaluating beach maintenance activity and its effect, if any, on erosion, developing erosion prevention and beach maintenance programs along with a monitoring system.

For the Waveland residents, help cannot come soon enough.

The beach, which we all are enjoying, is being lost," Soniat said. "Unless some remedial action is taken, we're going to lose it."

Show

only reasons the show was denied access to the clubhouse was because the facility would not be completed.

Craft show officials also claim they offered several other sites for consideration but all "were prohibited by the POA Board."

LeDuc countered that claim, saying the only alternative site proposed to the board was the Diamondhead Yacht Club. He said access was denied there because it would "virtually shut down" the marina operations of the facility.

He said the board would have been willing to consider any other sites.

Show officials have scheduled the 1998 event for Sept. 26-27.

A dinner meeting sponsored by the Diamondhead Community Association that will include LeDuc and his staff is scheduled for Aug. 5 at the Yacht Club. Tickets are $12.50 per person, and the deadline for reservations is Aug. 1.

Elk dinner set

The Bay-Waveland Area Elks are cooking and serving dinners every Friday night at the VFW Hall near the corner of Washington and Third streets in Bay St. Louis.

The menu alternates every Friday between rib-eye steaks and catfish and oyster dinners with beverages available at the VFW Lounge. Take-outs are available.

Meals are served between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. This Friday is Fish Fry Night, and in addition to a choice of catfish, oysters or combo (and that includes all-you-can-eat catfish or oysters or combos) you get French fries, cole slaw and hush puppies. Cost is $6.

On steak nights, the cost is $8 for the adult steak, which includes baked potato, house salad and dessert. By popular demand, starting next week, a new children's menu on steak nights, consisting of a ground beef steak with all the adult's trimmings for a $3 introductory offer will be added.

Proceeds ensure the ongoing promotion of youth activities and senior citizen programs, such as Bambino Baseball, National Hoop-Shoot Contest, Drug Awareness, Flag Day programs, Americanism and support for the local Senior Citizens Center.

Those needing directions, call 467-2100 or 467-1050 during normal working hours.

to have their children comply with state and federal regulations (on speckled trout and redfish), Perniciaro added.

Karl emphasized no catfish or stingrays will be accepted. "This is for the safety of the children participating," Karl added.

There will be a special crab division for ages six and under.

All fish must be caught by the participants on the day of the rodeo in any waters in the area from piers, shore line, boats or wading.

Sportsman's Club members will handle the scales, and the weighmaster's decisions are final.

Each participant will also receive a free hot dog and coke, Perniciaro said.

Trophies will be given for first, second and third place in each category, drawings will be held for a large number of prizes. Scales will close at 5 p.m.

Many of the prizes for the rodeo have been donated to the Sportsman's Club by local merchants.

Perniciaro said if any merchants are interested in making a donation or contribution, they may contact him at 467-5324.

Teacher asks supers to build juvenile detention center

BY ED LEPOMA

A local school teacher has called for supervisors to "bite the bullet" and build a much needed Juvenile Detention Center somewhere in Hancock County.

William Acker, who lives in Bay St. Louis and teaches history at Hattiesburg High School, met with Sheriff Ronnie Peterson this week to get an update on stalled plans to build the detention facility.

Acker and Bay High School teacher Joanie Thomson had just returned from a conference at USM's Gulf Coast campus, which dealt with "Confronting Crime and Conflict."

The 17th annual conference, which attracted teachers and some law enforcement personnel, was part of the Free Enterprise Summer Institute for Teachers. It is sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council, the American Enterprise Center and the Armstrong Foundation.

Acker said he came back from the conference with the feeling that "more needs to be done to educate juveniles about the end results of run-ins with the law" over drugs or for other illegal activities.

"And, part of the solution is we need a Juvenile Detention Facility where these problem teenagers can be given help," said Acker.

"The local board of Supervisors and local and state governments have to bite the bullet," Acker said, "and fund this facility."

Acker said he was aware of the fact there is opposition to building the juvenile facility in downtown Bay St. Louis, and suggested the site committee should look elsewhere.

"There are other areas in the county. We have vast amounts of land and resources. We must plan for future generations," said Acker.

Acker said he also endorsed a new county courthouse, and would like to see the old facility on Main Street restored as a museum to house county history.

Latest cost estimates to build a two-story, 10-bed juvenile detention facility attached to the rear of the present courthouse put the price tag at $1.4 million, and operational costs are estimated at $164,505 yearly.

NASA exercises option on Lockheed Martin contract

NASA has exercised a two-year priced option on a cost-plus-award-fee contract with Lockheed Martin Space Mission Systems & Services, Houston, Texas, for operations at the John C. Stennis Space Center in South Mississippi.

The total cost of the option period is $66,312,843, and the period covered is Sept. 1, 1997 through Aug. 31, 1999.

At Stennis, Lockheed Martin provides, manages and operates facilities, laboratories and related capabilities essential to the development and certification testing of large propulsion systems and components, including the Space Shuttle Main Engine and other future development propulsion systems at the NASA center.

This includes conducting research and development in propulsion test technologies including cryogenics, high-pressure gas, metrology, advanced instrumentation and sensor systems and engine diagnostics.

The company also provides services which include conducting research and development technologies to support NASA goals in environmental systems, science and observations, technology applications development and commercialization of remote sensing and to provide technical support services to NASA.
